BEST PLACES

SINTRA

Merging History and Fantasy in Sintra, is often called a fairytale village, and for one good reason. Aptly named after the moon goddess by the Moors, the place teems with castles and palaces that are so enchanting that they all seem to come straight from fantasy books. Its lush and exotic foliage also add to the bewitching ambiance of the place. It is indeed not surprising why so many people are enamored of the place. In fact, it has charmed the world's greatest poets, conquerors, aristocrats and philosophers, making this fantasy-like village a genuinely historical place. Given its fantastical landscape, Sintra Portugal region was chosen a UNESCO World Heritage Site. From the most imposing buildings to the most whimsical structures, Sintra proves how man-made development can also enhance nature's beauty. The village's ancient palaces and huge castles beautifully brought about gardens of local and exotic greenery – making this place one of the most truly magical must-sees in Portugal.

CASCAIS

This former fishing village has been tuned in to tourism since 1870 when the Portuguese royal court first came here for the summer, bringing the nobility in its wake.

It is now a young and international place with an extraordinary coastline with several small white sand beaches in and around town, such as the unspoilt Guincho Beach, one of the most beautiful around Lisbon. To the north, the lush Sintra mountains.

Cascais has a surprisingly unspoilt and charming old-town area, charming romantic parks and good quality museums and cultural galleries that provide an alliance of beach, history and cultural activity.

Estoril, the east parish has the famous Casino one of the largest in Europe as well as fine sand beaches.

Surfing, sailing, windsurfing, and kitesurfing are popular sports in the region around Cascais due to favorable weather, wind, and sea conditions. It is also becoming a popular golf destination, with over 10 golf courses.

Cascais is the perfect place to be used as base to visit Lisbon's region.
